CATHARINA NUSWANTARI, The Analysis of Characters in Greene's novel A Burnt-Out Case , English Language Education Department, Faculty of Language and Arts Education, Yogyakarta, 1993.

Greene's novel A Burnt-Out Case has inspired me to know deeply about the relation between the novel and real life. As a novel is said to be the representative of real life, I try to prove it by having an analysis on the standard of lifelikeness of Greene's novel A Burnt-Out Case .

The objectives of this thesis are to find out whether the characters in the novel fulfil the standard of lifelikeness or not and how the characters face their lives. The approach used in analysis is structuralist approach. While the data is gained through a desk-research.

From the analysis of the characters it can be concluded that they fulfil the standard of lifelikeness. It means that each character in the story embodies something that we can find in ourselves. What is experienced by each character in the story is possible to happen in our world of reality.
