Dear Authors,

it is my pleasure to inform you that after a long reviewing and publication process your submission to Teaching English with Technology has been scheduled and copy-edited for publication in the July issue. Right now we need your urgent proofreading of the attached file. Please make any suggestions/changes/corrections, as well as add any clarifications if there are any editorial comments, using Acrobat Reader annotation functions. Get back to us not later than within 5 days from today (by July 21), preferably, even sooner. Do keep in mind that author's failure to respond or proof-read the paper results in postponing their papers to consecutive issues of the Journal.

Should you have any queries, do not hesitate to email me directly.

Dear Editor,

Please find the revised manuscript and author's declaration blank. We have tried our best to revise our paper. We have addressed the reviewers' comments, including the mechanics and current references. However, there are two comments that we do not agree. The first is the suggestion that we reduce the introduction into two paragraphs. We follow Swales' CARS Models for Article Introduction so that we decide not to reduce the paragraphs. The second is the reviewer's suggestion to add "codes" in findings and discussion section. Actually, the codes are already there but we try to elaborate the codes in a narrative way.

Thank you very much. We look forward to hearing good news from you.

we would like to inform you of the review results.

Attached you will find both reviewers' files. We would like to ask you to address the reviewers' suggestions and revise the paper accordingly. Would it be possible for you to do this within the next 2 weeks' time (or sooner, as soon as possible)? Remember about the right formatting, too (see e.g. the TEwT website recently published articles). We are looking forward to your decision.

We're also sending Author's declaration for you to complete and send to this address (to be signed by all authors).

Dear Editors,

We would like to submit our manuscript entitled "Leveraging Kahoot! into EFL Grammar Class to Boost Student Engagement." This paper is one of the results of my research projects on incorporating technologies into EFL classes to enhance learner autonomy and engagement. One paper was published in TEwT (2017) and the other is still under review. Attached are the manuscript and Turnitin's similarity score for your consideration.

We look forward to hearing good news from you. Thank you very much.
