ABSTRACT

Nugroho, Petrus Dian Agus. 2021. Signs of Cohesion and Coherence in the editorial of the Jogja Tribune November-December 2020 edition. Thesis. Yogyakarta: PBSI, FKIP, USD

This study analyzes the cohesion markers and editorial coherence of Tribun Jogja editions November – December 2020. There are formulations of research problems carried out, 1) What are the types of cohesion markers for the editorial of Tribun Jogja November - December 2020 edition, 2) What are the types of markers of the editorial coherence of the Jogja Tribune November - December 2020 edition?. The purpose of this study is to describe the cohesion and coherence of the editorial of the Jogja Tribune November - December 2020 edition.

The type of research used is qualitative research. This research was conducted by taking data sources in the form of an editorial in the November-December 2020 edition of Tribun Jogja and data in the form of sentences and paragraphs. The process of collecting data using the method of observing with note-taking techniques. The research instrument, the researcher made his own and assisted with coded data cards. The analysis technique used is the agih method, with the technique for direct elements. Then, the triangulation technique uses the expert triangulation method.

Based on the results of the data analysis that has been presented, it can be concluded that, first, the researcher found grammatical cohesion that was more dominant than other markers in the editorial of the Tribun Jogja edition of November - December 2020. The grammatical cohesion found included references, substitutions, ellipsis, and conjunctions. In lexical cohesion markers, the researcher found several markers including, hyponyms, repetitions, synonyms, antonyms, and equivalents. The two researchers found marked and unmarked coherence in the editorial of Tribun Jogja edition of November – December 2020. Marked coherence includes, temporal or chronological coherence, intensity coherence, causality coherence, additive coherence, and contrast coherence. The unsigned coherence found by the researcher is only the granular coherence.

It is recommended that other researchers who want to research about cohesion and coherence, to examine other forms of discourse besides editorials. This is to obtain a variety of possible discoveries about markers of cohesion and coherence in other discourse.

Keywords: grammatical cohesion, lexical cohesion, marked coherence, unmarked coherence.
