ABSTRACT

Arianto, Imanuela Dhimas. 2021. Conversation Between Characters in the Online Performance of "Till There Was You". Essay. Yogyakarta: Indonesian Language and Literature Education, Department of Language and Arts, Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, Sanata Dharma University.

The background of this research is that researchers are interested in examining the implicatures of conversations between characters in the online performance "Till There Was You" because the conversations between characters that occur in the performance are suspected to contain implicatures (implicative meanings). This study aims to answer three questions, namely (1) describing the form of conversational implicatures between characters in the online performance "Till There Was You", (2) describing the function of conversational implicatures between characters in the online performance "Till There Was You", and (3) describing the meaning conversational implicatures between characters in the online performance of "Till There Was You".

The source of data used in this study is the online performance video "Till There Was You". The data used in this study are utterances between characters in the online performance "Till There Was You" which are suspected to contain implicatures and also photos of characters in the online performance scene. The type of research that the researcher uses is descriptive qualitative research. The data collection technique carried out by the researcher was the listening and note-taking technique. The researcher uses implicature theory, context, and speech acts as the main reference for conducting research analysis. The researcher found 33 speech data that allegedly contained implicatures and also photo data of scenes during the performance. The data was approved by the triangulator on July 17, 2021.

Based on the results of the analysis and discussion conducted by the researchers, three important things were found. First, the researcher finds forms of conversational implicatures between characters in representative speech, in directive speech, in expressive speech, and in commissive speech. Second, the researcher found the functions of conversational implicatures between characters in assertive speech, in directive speech, in expressive speech, and in commissive speech. Third, the researcher found the meaning of conversational implicatures between characters, namely, the meaning of ordering or asking, the meaning of stating, the meaning of praising, the meaning of insinuating or mocking, the meaning of feeling annoyed or complaining, the meaning of surprise or fear, the meaning of explaining, the meaning of affirming, the meaning of advising, the meaning of telling, the meaning of thanking, the meaning of offering, and the meaning of recommending.
