This study aims to determine: 1. The influence of consumptive lifestyle, brand awareness, and beauty vlogger simultaneously on the intention to repurchase Emina cosmetic products. 2. The influence of a consumptive lifestyle partially on the intention to repurchase Emina cosmetic products. 3. The influence of brand awareness partially on the repurchase intention of Emina cosmetic products. 4. The influence of beauty vlogger partially on the interest in repurchasing Emina cosmetic products. This study population was female consumers of Emina's cosmetic products in Yogyakarta. The sampling technique used was purposive sampling. Data was obtained by distributing online questionnaires to 100 female respondents in Yogyakarta who used Emina cosmetic products and watched a beauty vlogger provide a review for one month. The data was processed using the IBM SPSS version 25 application. The data technique used descriptive analysis and regression analysis. The validity test uses the product moment correlation technique from Pearson and the reliability test uses the Cronbach Alpha formula.

The result showed that: 1. There was a simultaneous influence of consumptive lifestyle, brand awareness, and beauty vlogger on the intention to repurchase Emina's cosmetic products. 2. Consumptive lifestyle had a partial influence on the intention to repurchase Emina cosmetic products. 3. Brand awareness had a partial influence on the interest in repurchasing Emina cosmetic products. 4. Beauty vlogger partially influences the interest in repurchasing Emina cosmetic products.
