Local wisdom found in traditional communities in Indonesia contains cultural ancestral values and should be developed and introduced, one of which is through the learning process. The local wisdom that can be introduced is Tas Anjat which comes from Mahakam Ulu. The introduction of local wisdom in the form of anjat bags was carried out using learning media, namely picture stories. The aim of this research is to develop a picture story book and describe the quality of the Tas Anjat picture story as a learning medium for class IV students Theme 8 Subtheme 1 learning 3.

The type of research developed by researchers is the ADDIE type R&D method with the following stages, namely 1) Analyze 2) Design, 3) Development, 4) Implement, 5) Evaluate. Researchers used stages 1 to 4 in developing a picture story entitled "Anjat Bags with Economic Value" and will be validated.

Validation was carried out by four validators (lecturers, linguists and fourth grade elementary school teachers). The aspects that had been assessed by the validators were cover, friends, characterization, story line, literature and language. The average value of the four validators was 3.77, meaning "Very Good" and it was concluded that the quality of the story with the Anjat Bag as an economic value that the researchers had developed was very good and had good quality.
