Christianti, J. (2025). Perbedaan Hubungan gaya kelekatan dan kepuasan hubungan pada emerging adulthood yang berpacaran jarak jauh. Skripsi. Yogyakarta: Psikologi, Fakultas Psikologi, Sanata Dharma.

Penelitian ini dilakukan untuk mengetahui hubungan antara gaya kelekatan dan kepuasan hubungan pada emerging adulthood menggunakan penelitian kuantitatif. Subjek dalam penelitian ini adalah emerging adulthood yang berusia 18-25 tahun, menjalani hubungan berpacaran khususnya berpacaran jarak jauh. Sampel penelitian ini berjumlah 642 orang dengan jumlah partisipan laki-laki dan perempuan seimbang, yaitu laki-laki 321 partisipan dan perempuan 321 partisipan. Peneliti berhipotesis bahwa ada hubungan negatif antara gaya kelekatan anxiety dan avoidant dengan kepuasan hubungan. Peneliti mengukur gaya kelekatan menggunakan Experiences in Close Relationships-Revised (ECR-R) (Fraley et al., 2000) dan mengukur kepuasan hubungan menggunakan Relationship Assesment Scale (RAS) (Hendrick, 1988). Kedua skala telah diterjemahkan ke Bahasa Indonesia. Skala ECR-R dengan dua dimensi, yaitu anxiety dan avoidant. Anxiety memiliki reliabilitas sebesar 0,976 ($\rho \geq 70$) dan avoidant 0,932 ($\rho \geq 70$). Skala RAS memiliki reliabilitas 0,916 ($\rho \geq 70$). Peneliti menganalisis data menggunakan metode Spearman Rank. Hasil analisis menunjukkan adanya hubungan negatif antara gaya kelekatan anxiety dan avoidant dengan kepuasan hubungan. Koefisien korelasi dari kepuasan hubungan dan anxiety -0,429 dan kepuasan hubungan dengan avoidant -0,457 termasuk dalam kategori sedang dan memiliki tanda negatif. Dengan demikian, dapat disimpulkan bahwa semakin tinggi skor anxiety atau avoidant, maka semakin rendah kepuasan hubungan.

ABSTRACT

Christianti, J. (2025). Differences in the relationship between attachment style and relationship satisfaction in emerging adulthood in long-distance dating relationships. Undergraduate Thesis. Yogyakarta: Faculty of Psychology, Sanata Dharma University.

This study aimed to examine the relationship between attachment style and relationship satisfaction among individuals in emerging adulthood, using a quantitative research design. The subjects of this study were individuals aged 18–25 years who were currently in romantic relationships, specifically long-distance relationships. The total sample consisted of 642 participants, with an equal number of males and females—321 male and 321 female participants. The researcher hypothesized a negative relationship between anxiety and avoidant attachment styles and relationship satisfaction. Attachment style was measured using the Experiences in Close Relationships-Revised (ECR-R) scale (Fraley et al., 2000), and relationship satisfaction was measured using the Relationship Assessment Scale (RAS) (Hendrick, 1988). Both instruments were translated into Bahasa Indonesia. The ECR-R consists of two dimensions: anxiety and avoidance. The anxiety dimension had a reliability coefficient of 0,976 ($\geq .70$), while the avoidance dimension had a reliability of 0,932 ($\geq .70$). The RAS showed a reliability of 0,916 ($\geq .70$). Data were analyzed using the Spearman Rank correlation method. The results indicated a negative relationship between the anxiety and avoidant attachment styles and relationship satisfaction. The correlation coefficient between anxiety and relationship satisfaction was $-0,429$, and between avoidance and relationship satisfaction was $-0,457$. These values fall within the moderate category and indicate a negative direction. Thus, it can be concluded that the higher the level of anxiety or avoidance in attachment, the lower the relationship satisfaction.
