This undergraduate thesis titled "DESCRIPTION OF PUGERAN YOUTH DAY ACTIVITIES IN THE GRADUAL FAITH FORMATION OF CATHOLIC YOUTH AT THE PARISH OF THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS PUGERAN" aims to describe the Pugeran Youth Day activities as part of the gradual faith formation process for Catholic youth at the Parish of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Pugeran. Gradual faith formation is an effort to cultivate faith that is planned, directed, and sustainable according to the developmental stages of the participants. In this context, PYD activities become a strategic platform to nurture, strengthen, and develop the faith of young Catholics holistically through experiences of fellowship, service, and evangelization.

This research uses a descriptive qualitative approach with data collection techniques through in-depth interviews, participatory observation, and documentation. The informants in this study include the committee chairperson, OMK, and the parish vicar involved in the PYD activities. Data analysis was conducted through data reduction, data presentation, and conclusion drawing.

The research results show that the PYD activities at the Sacred Heart of Jesus Pugeran Parish contain important elements in the gradual formation of faith, including: strengthening spirituality through the celebration of the Eucharist and adoration, increasing self-awareness as part of the Church, fostering Christian values within group dynamics, and active involvement in service and evangelization. This activity also serves as a space for encounters that foster a spirit of brotherhood and togetherness among the youth. Thus, PYD makes a significant contribution to the gradual and sustainable process of faith growth among OMK.
