Thesis titled “DESCRIPTION OF MENTORING FOR YOUNG CATHOLICS IN CHURCH LIFE: A CASE STUDY OF BASIC LEADERSHIP TRAINING ACTIVITIES AT THE PARISH OF SANTA MARIA FATIMA BREBES”. This thesis aims to describe the mentoring model and the impact of the Basic Leadership Training activity on Catholic Youth at the Santa Maria Fatima Brebes Parish. This thesis is based on the role of Catholic youth in church life. The Basic Leadership Training activity is one of the activities that effectively equips young people with an understanding of their potential, their important role in church life, and enhances their leadership skills. This research uses a qualitative approach with data collection techniques through structured interviews with 8 informants and 2 validators. The results of the study indicate that the mentoring model that is appealing to young people is one that is participant-centered and contextual. This approach is supported by group dynamics, sharing, games, and simulations. The Basic Leadership Training activity helps participants learn to know themselves and others, work together, and understand the meaning of the activity directly. They become more enthusiastic about channeling their talents in liturgical activities, willing to become mentors for PIA and PIR, regularly scheduling social service activities, and collaborating with youth communities outside the Church. The success of the Basic Leadership Training activities serves as a motivation for young people to actively contribute to church life and community engagement.
