ABSTRACT

The research aim is to describe the relationship quality between two adolescent siblings from divorced parents. The method used in this research was the qualitative method, using interviews as the technique for collecting data. Through a purposive sampling technique, three pairs of siblings from age 19 – 24 were gathered. Data was validated using member checking and providing a rich and detailed description of the data. The outcome of this research showed that all three relationships have a positive quality, marked by high closeness, solidarity, and low conflict and rivalry. All three relationships can also apply a symmetrical and also complementary relationship (Knapp and Vangelisti, 1995). If classified into Gold's theory (1989, in Myers and Goodboy, 2010), two relationships are classified as an intimate relationship and one relationship is classified as a congenial relationship.
