This undergraduate thesis is entitled THE ROLE OF THE EUCHARIST ON CAMPUS IN FORMING CATECHISM SPIRITUALITY FOR STUDENTS OF THE CATHOLIC RELIGIOUS EDUCATION STUDY PROGRAM OF 2021. This undergraduate thesis was written because of an interest in the role of the Eucharist on campus in shaping catechist spirituality for students of the Catholic Religious Education Study Program, class of 2021. This writing aims to determine the role of the Eucharist on campus in shaping catechist spirituality for students of the Catholic Religious Education Study Program, class of 2021. To achieve this goal, the author researched and conducted participatory research by attending the Eucharistic celebration on campus. The author conducted interviews with informants who are students of the Catholic Religious Education Study Program, class of 2021 to more deeply and closely examine their knowledge and experiences regarding the Eucharist on campus. After that, the author conducted a Focus Group Discussion (FGD) in order to draw and confirm answers from many informants regarding the Eucharist on campus. The author also used document studies to complement the research results. From this study, the author wanted to determine whether the Eucharist on campus plays a role in shaping the spirituality of catechists in the 2021 intake of Catholic Religious Education students. It is hoped that through this study, Catholic Religious Education students will realize the importance of interpreting the Eucharist on campus as a means of shaping the spirituality of student catechists. From this study, the author found that the Eucharist plays a role in shaping the spirituality of catechists. The Eucharist provides enthusiasm, motivation, and confirmation for the spirituality of catechists.
